San Juan de Gaztelugatxe,
Spain

The famous TV show "Game of Thrones" was shot in this famous Spanish location.

These are the natural stairs of Sperlinga castle. It is one of the most fascinating castles in Sicily. It was built by digging into the sandstone rock and partly built above it. The Sperlinga castle is unique in its kind, also because of its large dimensions. Inside the castle there are spaces once used as prisons, granaries, cisterns, as well as boardrooms.

Palamidi

Palamidi is a fortress in Nafplio, Greece, which was built in 1687. It takes its name from the Homeric hero Palamidis. The height of the fortress is 216 meters and it has 857 steps. During the Greek Revolution of 1821, the Turks fortified Palamidi but on November 30, 1822, the Greeks conquered it after a battle.

Scala dei Turchi, Italy

The Scala dei Turchi has a wavy and irregular shape, with lines that are not harsh but sweet and rounded. The colour of the rock is pure white, a colour which, as we shall see, is due to the particular type of minerals present in the rock.

Lentini, Sicily, street art stairs

These stairs are situated in an old neighbourhood of our town that has recently been reevaluated through art. Here professional artists and school students find a place to express their creative potential by painting on the walls scenes linked to the story of the town that, in the past, was a Greek colony.

Monastery of Great Meteoron

Here there is one of the famous giant rocks of Meteora with a monastery on top, located near the town Kalabaka in the plain of Thessaly, Greece. The highest of the rock is 375 meters above the Peinios valley.

There are 3000 stairs that lead you to the monastery. The scenery is fantastic.

These are famous stairs of Noto, a Sicilian Baroque town.

It's popular for its "infiorata". Teams of artists compose a mosaic of colorful petals, until they form a carpet that covers the pavement of the street. This floral event is aimed at the world: every year the theme is dedicated to a different country.
