We use used to + verb for talking about states or actions that were true or happened in the past, but are not true or do not happen now.

My hometown is nothing like it used to be!

He used to play football when he was young.

Used to is always for talking about actions or states in the past that are not true now.

The café we used to visit on Saturdays is now an Italian restaurant. (We don't go there now.)

We use used to to emphasize that the state or action is not true now or does not happen

Negative - Question

She didn't use to wear these earrings but now she likes wearing them.

So what else did you use to do to when you were a child?

Used to doesn't change - it's always in the past simple.
